Transforming Evangelism – Rev. Dr. F. Douglas Powe, Jr.

For Christians sharing one's faith—evangelizing—is viewed as a mandate from Jesus himself before he departed earth: commanding his disciples to “spread the good news. Yet, today, a number of factors are curbing many Christians’ enthusiasm for evangelism. Perhaps it's time to re-examine John Wesley's model of evangelism as a full, natural circle - where it's a communal beginning point rather than an solitary end. Wesley models an evangelism that reaches out and welcomes, invites and nurtures, and speaks to both head and heart.”

Rev. Dr. Powe, is director of the Lewis Center for Church Leadership and holds the James C. Logan Chair in Evangelism at Wesley Theological Seminary in Washington, DC. He is the author and co-author of many books, Transforming Evangelism: The Wesleyan Way of Sharing Faith; and Transforming Community: The Wesleyan Way to Missional Congregations.

Clergy Boundaries in a Modern World – Rev. Cathy Joens, Rev. Katherine Haselden Crimm, & Rev. Rusty Crimm

Effective evangelism also requires having an awareness of what constitutes good and bad boundaries, and knowing how issues of misconduct typically arise. In addition to the daily in person interactions, we live in an era of instantaneous, electronic communication. Taking steps that can help prevent misconduct or the appearance of misconduct will strengthen our message to the world.

Note: Four Sexual Ethics/Boundaries/Safe Sanctuary trainings are required each quadrennium. Participants will be able to count this workshop as the first of the upcoming quadrennium.
